Highlights from 2025 Flight Schedule:

New routes strengthen connections between Denmark, Greenland, Iceland – and Canada

Air Greenland is introducing important new and resumed routes that enhance connections between Denmark, Greenland, Iceland, and Canada, offering greater flexibility for both business and leisure travelers:

New Tuesday Route: Southbound Connection from Nuuk to Billund via Keflavik

The southbound flight will include a stopover in Keflavik, Iceland, providing an additional link between Greenland and Iceland before continuing to Billund. This service offers a seamless travel experience between Greenland, Iceland, and Denmark, making it easier and more appealing for both business and leisure travelers to journey between these key destinations.

Thursday Route: Northbound Flight from Billund to Nuuk via Keflavik

On Thursdays, the northbound flight from Billund to Nuuk will also include a stopover in Keflavik, Iceland, ensuring an optimal connection between these destinations. The southbound leg of the journey features a direct flight from Nuuk to Billund, guaranteeing a quick and efficient return trip.

Nuuk–Iqaluit Route Returns in 2025

From April 2 to October 28, 2025, Air Greenland's seasonal route between Nuuk and Iqaluit will return with weekly departures every Wednesday at 2:55 PM. This route provides a direct connection between Greenland and Canada, supporting both passenger and cargo travel while strengthening collaboration and ties within the Arctic.

As Greenland's national airline, Air Greenland continues to play a vital role in connecting Greenland with the rest of the world. These new routes support the airline's mission to strengthen connections to international markets and promote travel, trade, and cultural exchange, while also making Greenland more accessible.

Domestic flights - Hub and spoke

Connecting domestic and international routes (From November 28, 2024)

Air Greenland’s new domestic flight schedule is built around a Hub and spoke network, connecting the key hubs of Nuuk and Ilulissat with major domestic airports daily. This improves same-day connections across Northern, Central, Southern, and Eastern Greenland, as well as linking domestic routes with international Atlantic flights.

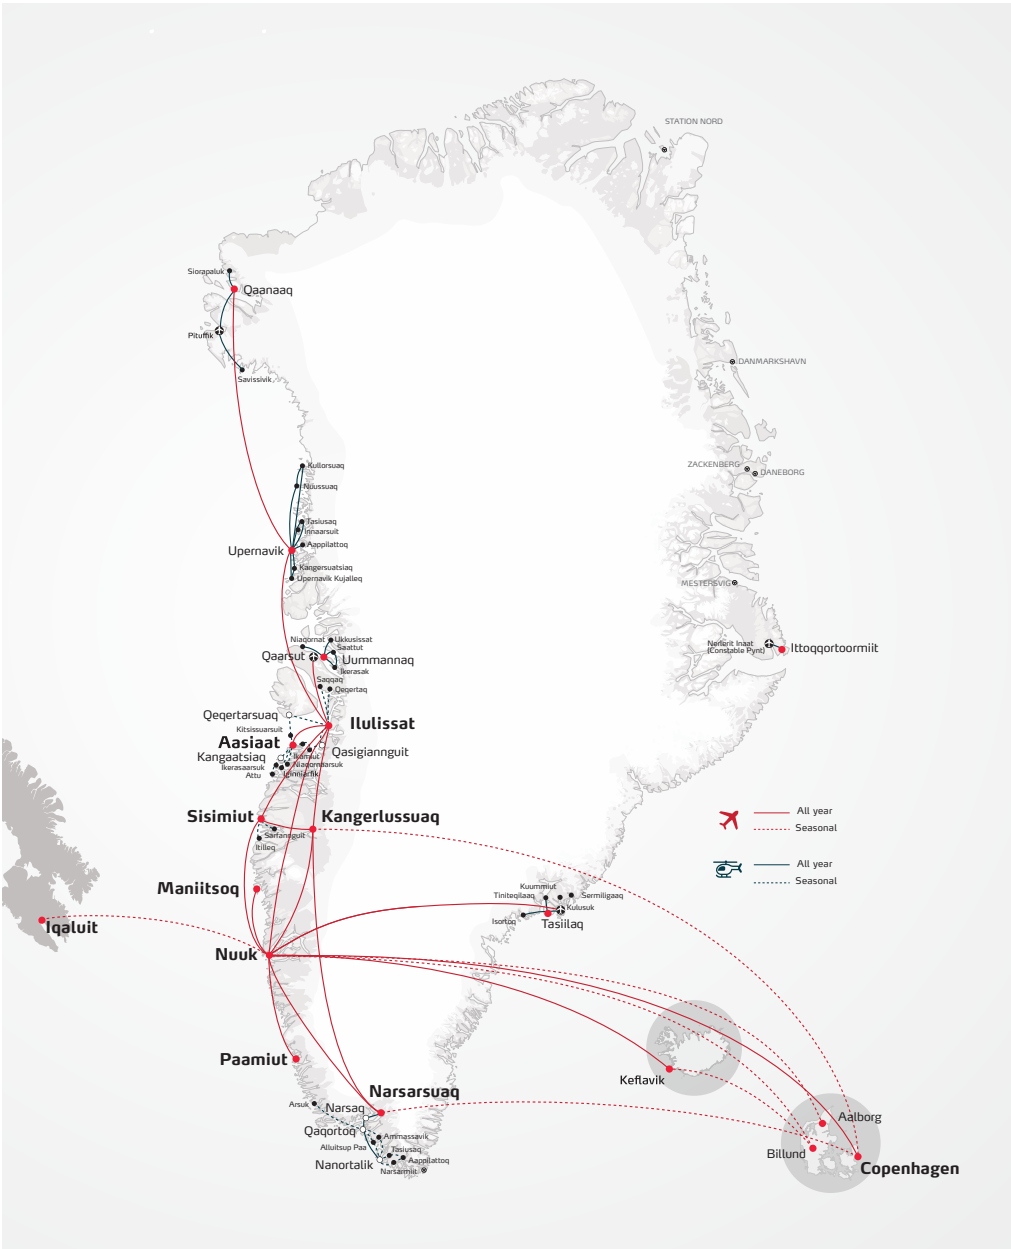

Two Dash aircraft will be based in Ilulissat, while six will remain in Nuuk. Aircraft will fly from these hubs to various destinations, bringing passengers to connect with international routes or other domestic flights.

Nuuk as a Hub:

Five Dash aircraft will depart from Nuuk in the morning to key domestic destinations, returning by late morning for passengers connecting to international or other Greenlandic routes.

Ilulissat as a Hub:

Two Dash aircraft will fly from Ilulissat to northern destinations, returning in time for onward connections to Nuuk, international routes, and other domestic regions.

Domestic flights - Hub and spoke

Connecting domestic and international routes
(From November 28, 2024)

Flight Schedule for South Greenland – Qaqortoq/Narsaq/Nanortalik

South Greenland will see a significant increase in weekly connections to North, Central, and East Greenland, along with same-day links to the Atlantic route via Nuuk. Additionally, there will be a direct route between Narsarsuaq and Copenhagen. Starting November 28, 2024, travelers can fly up to five times a week via Nuuk, with this increasing to eight weekly flights during the summer and 10 weekly flights by summer 2025.

Flight Schedule for Central Greenland – Paamiut

Flights to and from Paamiut will remain unchanged but will now route through Nuuk, ensuring better same-day connections to the Atlantic route and East Greenland.

Flight Schedule for Central Greenland – Maniitsoq

Maniitsoq will see a slight reduction in weekly departures, but new same-day connections to East and South Greenland will be added, improving overall connectivity.

Flight Schedule for Central Greenland – Sisimiut

Sisimiut will maintain 16 weekly departures, with an additional Saturday flight to align with Atlantic routes, offering same-day connections to North and East Greenland.

Flight Schedule for Central Greenland – Kangerlussuaq

On Mondays and Thursdays, northbound flights from Copenhagen to Nuuk operate via Kangerlussuaq. Southbound flights from Nuuk to Copenhagen, also via Kangerlussuaq, are available on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Flight Schedule for North Greenland – Aasiaat/Ilulissat/Qaarsut-Uummannaq/Upernavik

There will be no changes in the number of flights to North Greenland, but travelers will now connect through Ilulissat and Nuuk for same-day access to the Atlantic route. This change will be reflected in a new schedule in 2025.

Flight Schedule for Qaanaaq

The number of flights to Qaanaaq remains the same, with one weekly flight in winter and two in summer.

Flight Schedule for East Greenland – Kulusuk

Starting November 28, 2024, East Greenland will benefit from significantly improved same-day connections to both the domestic network and Atlantic routes. Kulusuk will gain direct flights to the Atlantic airport, increasing the potential for more travelers, including tourists arriving via Nuuk. There will be up to three weekly flights between the Atlantic airport and East Greenland.
